Using the yellow outlines here as a guide, build five circles of increasing size. Build another circle exactly the same size as the largest of the five circles. Now build four more circles of decreasing size in the opposite direction. This will give you a perfect Minecraft sphere.

How to Structure your Build | Minecraft

The Minecraft world is divided into different areas called "biomes". Different biomes contain different blocks and plants and change how the land is shaped. There is an advancement that includes finding all the biomes; this is better explained on the advancements page. Biomes affect you, especially at the beginning of the game, but you need not worry about specific biomes until you have learned how to play the game.
